J. D. Tuggle was in London last Monday.
Miss Maud McDonald is on the sick list this week.
Hiram Yeahey made a flying trip to Graves Wednesday afternoon.
Charles Cud, of Williamsburg, was a visitor in this place last Sunday.

Misses Lena Wilson and Lula Jones left last Saturday for Richmond.

Dr. J. B. Westerfield returned last Wednesday morning from a trip to Oklahoma.

John Woodward, general manager of the Camp Ground Telephone Co., was in town last Wednesday.

Mr. Joseph Berry is rapidly improving at the hospital in Louisville, and will soon be able to return home.

J. Frank Hawn left Wednesday morning for Lexington where he goes to attend the Democratic State Convention.

J. F. Hawn, J. R. Tuggle, W. M. Tye, Chas. Davis and Dr. E. B. Dishman attended the Democratic State Convention Thursday.

V. C. McDonald went to Lexington Tuesday to take Harry Hale to the Reform School at Greendale, and returned Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Tony Dondoney is in Pineville this week looking after some business connected with his marble works here. He will also go to Middlesboro before he returns.

Mrs. Forest Baker and two interesting little daughters arrived last Saturday from Lexington, to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Baker for a few days.

Miss Ella Smith went to Georgetown Monday by invitation to be present as a special guest at the marriage of the daughter of Mrs. Sallie Stone, Miss Lena to Mr. Jake Leihre, a prominent tonsorial artist, of that city.

Rev. L. B. Arvin and wife, John Parker, and wife, Edward Evans and wife, Mrs. B. C. Lewis, Mrs. J. W. Hughes, Prof. Will Rutherford B. H. Golden all of this city, were among the crowd who attended the General Association of Baptists, which assembled in Louisville on the 9th to the 12th inst.

Col. Will Baker, the popular shoe salesman, left Tuesday morning on his regular trip to his various customers in all parts of the country. He told an Advocate reporter that he was going to "circle to the left" this time, and sell a $100,000 bill before he returns. Of course, he will do this, as he took his fiddle along.

LOCAL LOOM.

Who will be the first to say—new roosting ears at our house today?

James D. Gregory's two months' old child is very sick with stomach trouble.

The old saying, the "early bird" gets the bug is alright, but the man who brings to this office a basket of home-grown ripe tomatoes first gets the "devil's" silver.

News was received here last Monday afternoon of the death of Mr. Walter Thompson, at Pineville, after an illness of several months with that dread disease, consumption. Mrs. W. W. Tinsley and Mrs. M. S. Costello, both went down Tuesday morning to attend the funeral services.

Thos. E. Smith had been at his bedside for the past ten days nursing and caring for him in his last hours.

W. C. Lockart is building an addition to his residence on Depot street.

Uncle Logan Runyan has formed a partnership with Frank Harbin in the blacksmith business, and moved into the shop with him.

There was an unusually small crowd in town last Monday for the first day of Circuit Court on account of the farmers being rushed with their crops.

MEETING.
There will be all day meeting at the McClelland Methodist Episcopal Church, near Bailey's Switch, the fourth Sunday in June. The public is very cordially invited to attend. Rev. J. R. Howes of this city, will be in charge of the services.
J. R. HOWES, Presid. Eld.

We invite the attention of our readers to the advertisement M. J. Shannon, the Jeweler and Engraver, which appears in this issue. Mr. Shannon is a first-class jeweler, and should be encouraged by our home people. He fills a long felt want in that line here, and besides he is a gentleman whose presence in our city adds the make up of the town.

Barbourville Council No. 113, Jr. O. U. A. M. will on June 14, their annual decoration day, decorate their deceased members' graves at Trace Branch graveyard. All Sisters and Brother Councils are extended an invitation to be with us and the public are cordially welcomed.

David T. Wilson, R. S.

An Omission.

In our report last week of the memorial services we neglected to mention the recitation by little Miss Ruth Hemphill, entitled the "Brown Button," which was in reality, one of the best features of the day. Miss Ruth is a charming little lady and knows that we did not mean to slight her, but in the hurry of business we simply forgot to mention her when we should have had her name in the list. She is a granddaughter of P. D. Brittain, Commander of the Post of this city, and is a charming little lady.

Card of Thanks.

To the Citizens of Barbourville—
WHEREAS, We the members of John G. Eve Post, No. 221, G. A. R., have received the hearty support and co-operation of the citizens of Barbourville and surrounding country in the gift of our beautiful flag of which we are proud, and also the aid and assistance rendered in making Decoration day a success, therefore be it;

Resolved, By said Post that we hereby tender our heart-felt thanks to the people for the kindness shown to us, and that we tender our thanks to the editors of both the newspapers of our city for the kindness and consideration shown to us and the publicity given through the columns of their papers.

We also desire to extend our thanks to the ladies for their beautiful floral tributes, and we extend a like thanks to the little girls who took such an active part in the distribution of the flowers.

We want to thank the Red Men's Band for their patriotic music furnished on this occasion, and also the Red Men and Jr. Mechanics and all friends, for their aid in making it a glorious Decoration Day.

ENTERTAINED.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Cole entertained at their home on Main Street last Monday afternoon, in honor of Miss Fannie Kellems, of Red House, Madison county, who is Mr. and Mrs. Cole's guest this week. Those present were: Misses Fannie Kellems, Davis Sampson, Eviline Sampson, Pauline Sampson, Lucile Howes, Mary Miller, Lillian Mitchell, Roberta Cole and Elsie Mitchell. Refreshments were served and all had a very delightful afternoon.

They Are Coming.

Everything under the sun is an encompassing statement, but is very appropriate and fitting in making a trite assertion relative to the manifold attractions and diversified features of the J. AUGUSTUS JONES SHOWS. Construe the statement literally and add a little of imagination, and even then, after seeing these Greater Shows there will be no subsequent indictment for exaggeration or perversion of the truth. Figuratively speaking, the J. Augustus Jones Shows have spread a drag-net over the amusement and zoological universe and hauled in the ropes; have made a scientific assortment of the great catch, retaining all that was wonderfully striking or sensational, and cast away the refuse. If there is aught that has been overlooked, it must be ethical, elusive or imaginary. Every avenue of possible innovation has been traversed. Every field of possible feature has been ravaged. Aggrandisement and progression were the watch-words; originality the slogan, and the date at Barbourville is Saturday, June 20th, for the Jones Enormous Shows.

For Circuit Court Clerk.

In the proper place today in this issue will be found the official announcement of W. H. McDonald, of this city, as a candidate for the office of Circuit Court Clerk.

Everybody in Knox county knows Henry McDonald, therefore it would be useless for us to attempt to introduce him to the voters of the county. He is the oldest son of Judge D. McDonald, deceased, and has spent his entire life in this, his native county. He is one the leading Masons of Southeastern Kentucky, and is also Great Senior Sagamore of the Great Council of Kentucky Red Men, a member of Tchoupitoulas Tribe, No. 111, of this city. He also belongs to the Odd Fellows, Junior Mechanics, and about fifteen other secret orders.

For some years past he has served as Chief of Police of this city, and has made the best police officer our city has ever had. He is perfectly familiar with the duties of the office and would make an excellent official if elected to the position he seeks.

Never was a more generous, big-hearted man ever lived than Henry McDonald, always ready to give his own private means to help any one in distress, and his generosity has kept him from accumulating much of this world's goods, because he always give and never speaks of it.

He is an ardent Republican and never allows any one to do more for the party or party ticket than himself. He now places his claims in the hands of the party and will abide by the result as expressed at the polls of the primary

For County Clerk.

In the proper place to-day in this issue, will be found the official announcement of C. C. Smith, who is asking the Republicans for an endorsement of his official record by electing him for another term as Clerk of the Knox County Court. Mr. Smith has made the county a very worthy and satisfactory clerk. He is polite and obliging to all who have occasion to visit the office and always accommodates any and all who seek information at his hands when it is in his power to do so.

He has had associated with him in the office, Judge John H. Davis, whom everyone respects and who is perfectly familiar with the records of the office and always makes everyone who enters, feel at home from the very start.

Besides looking after the routine of the office, Mr. Smith has been of inestimable value to the people of Knox county as a stave and tank merchant, buying everything that is ready for market and paying the farmers for their product as soon as they deliver the goods.

He has always been a loyal Republican and party worker and when there is work for some one to do, he mounts his horse and goes out and does it.

He places his claims in the hands of the Republican party and asks for an endorsement of his term which he is now so ably filling, and will abide by the result as expressed at the polls of the primary. He has proven himself worthy of the position and relies upon his record and the support of his friends to re-elect him to the position.

"Parallels in the natures of Christ and Man" will be the subject of Mr. Nichol's sermon for Sunday morning, Miss Mayo Tinsley will sing a soprano solo at this service.

The subject for the evening address will be the question "How can I know that I am Saved." At this service Mr. Nichol will sing "Face to Face" by Herbert Johnson. A cordial invitation to all.

THE HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

Pleasant Evening Reveries—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at the Editorial Pen.

Old people have faults, like children, but they have mothers to forgive them.

Young people should remember that you cannot trust a man simply because you see that the golden rule pinned on the front of his hat.

These days we sit on the shady side of the car, walk on the shady side of the street and sit in the shady window of the house. Let us also walk on the sunny side of life and see the disjointed things of life.

Supplement what the children learn at school with reading lessons at home. Reading aloud is good, and give information to members of the home circle who may be obliged to work their hands in the evening.

When tempted to criticise the food on the food on the home table, remember the adage that sleepers are golden. Criticism is never so exasperating to the housekeepers as at the table, where, in spite of hard work and worry, things will occasionally appear that are not as she had planned.

A TOAST TO GENTLEMEN.

The following toast to gentlemen is handed in by a lady contributor. Bless 'em! They have our joys, they double our sorrows, the trouble our expenses, they quadruple our cares, they excite our magnanimity, they increase our self-respect, waken our enthusiasm, arouse our affections, control our property, and out-manuever us in everything. This world is a dreary world with out them. In fact, I may say with out prospect of successful contradiction, that without them this world would not be much of a world anyway. We love them, and the dear things can't help it; we control them and the precious fellows don't know it. As husbands they are convenient, tho not always on hand; as beaus they are by no means "matelots." They are most agreeable as visitors, handy at State fairs, and indispensable at oyster saloons. They are splendid as escorts for some other fellow's wife or sister, and as friends they are better than women. As our fathers they are inexpressibly grand. A man may be a failure in business, a wreck in constitution, not enough to boast of as to beauty, nothing as a wit, less than nothing as a legislator for women's rights, and not very brilliant as a member of the press, but if our father we overlook his shortcomings and cover his peccadilloes with the divine mantle of charity. Then, as our husbands, how we love to parade them as paragons! In the sublime language of the poet:

We'll lie for 'em,
We'll cry 'em
And if we could we'd fly for 'em;
We'd anything but die for 'em.

STARTING IN LIFE.

You are soon to leave and break away from all the tender ties of home and go out to seek your fortune in the world. Let us whisper a few words of council. We suppose you wish to be rich; most people do. We don't think riches desirable. We should be sorry to have inherited wealth. Well, the way to get it is by forethought to plan, industry to execute, and prudence to keep the earnings of your work. Get what you honestly earn, but never take. Money is by no means the best thing in life. You are here to become a good man, a wise man, a just man, an affectionate, a religious man. Work for your manhood as much as for money; take as much pains to get, and as much to keep it. Keep clear of vice, especially intemperance, gambling and licentiousness. These three ruin thousands of young men every year. Be not gloomy, sour and stiff. Cheerfulness, gaiety, liveliness and mirthfulness belong to your period of life. You will find little real pleasure in anything your conscience forbids. As you have opportunity, cultivate your mind and forethought, prudence and industry will help you as much as in getting money. And now would you prolong the sunshine of life forever? We must say to you there is no real happiness in life without religion. It is a restraint from doing wrong, an encouragement to do right, and a great comfort at all times of life. And finally, remember, though absent from the sight of the dear ones at home you will ever live in their hearts; and their highest earthly wish will be that you may prove yourself a noble man.

THE COMFORTS OF BEING A BOY.

There is a comfort to be a boy in the amount of work he can get rid of doing. It is sometimes astonishing how slow he can go on an errand; perhaps, he couldn't explain to himself why, when he is sent to the neighbor's for yeast, he stops to stone frogs. He is not exactly cruel, but he wants to see if he can't hit 'em. It is a curious fact about boys, that two will be a great deal slower about doing anything than one. Boys have a power of helping each other. But say what you will about the general usefulness of boys, a farm without a boy would soon come to grief. He is always in demand. In the first place he is to do all the errands, go to the store, postoffice, and carry all sorts of messages. He would like to have as many legs as a wheel has spokes, and rotate in the same way. This he sometimes tries to do, and people who have seen him turn "turning cart wheels" along the side of the road have supposed he was amusing himself and trying his time. He was only trying to invent a new mode of locomotion, so he could economize his legs, and do his errands with greater dispatch. Leapfrog is one of the methods of getting over the ground quickly. He has a natural genius for combining pleasant with business.

The parents who rear their son in idleness are doing them an unspeakable harm. Every boy is entitled to know by actual experience what hard manual labor means, and get the blessing that comes from toughened muscles and a tanned skin.

The boy who takes his hat off when he enters the house is the one who usually has his hair combed and his face clean, and the girl who says "please," and "thank you," is always prettier than the one who forgets these little things. You just look around and see if this is not true.

In every city there are movements which can call for the expenditure of money. Some of these are of a distinctly public character, and are for through taxation. Others are of a semi-public character, and for them the funds must be raised by voluntary contributions. These must come from the men who are doing the business of the place and who have the money. There is no other way. The man who has the money is the man who must pay the bills, if they are to be paid. Most enterprises are of a public nature which have for their object the bettering of conditions, business and otherwise, in a city, directly or indirectly, return more than the money expended to those who pay it.

No complaint is made about short measure when we have a peck of trouble.

Of every million people 800 are blind—and the other 999,200 can't see their own faults.

COURT OF APPEALS.

for he bears able testimony, that he never had a better school under his charge as superintendent than that which he seeks to destroy in this litigation.

It can not be controverted, that the statute forbids the employment, as teachers in the common schools, of persons who do not hold certificates showing them competent to teach. But we hold that the provision does not forbid the trustees from accepting the aid of teachers whose services are given gratuitously. Altruism is not within the inhibition of the Statute. Nor can it be denied, that the Constitution forbids the diversion of any money raised by taxation for public education into coffers of any denominational school; but we have read this record several times with the utmost care, and have failed to find the slightest evidence of any intention to pay one cent of the fund involved here to Union College or to any one connected therewith, or to either of the Misses Weaver. On the contrary the uncontradicted testimony shows that every dollar of it will be paid (and is due) to Profs. Reihald, Faulkner and Jones, who were employed by the trustees to teach the school during the session of 1906-1907. No one disputes that the men were qualified in every way to teach in the public schools or that they carried out their contract with the utmost fidelity. It is conceded that the character of their work was of the highest class, and that every white child in the district, within the pupil age, who desired to attend school was received and taught.

So far from putting the public school under sectarian influences, the evidence shows that nearly all of the trustees are members of, or sympathize with denominations other than the Methodist church. Not one of the teachers in question, including the young ladies, were shown to be members of, or sympathizers with that denomination. The truth is, the appellee's defense, so far as the constitutional point is concerned, is merely suspicion based upon very small and very significant circumstances. Among others, he showed that there were two very young men trying to work their way through Union College; that President Easley persuaded the trustees to hire these boys at eight dollars per month each, to act as janitors in the school.

It is not denied that the services of a janitor was needed, or charged that the young men did not faithfully earn the pittance paid them; but the fact that they were students at Union College at the time of the employment seems to have presaged all the evils of a union of Church and State. Again, owing to the fact that appellee wrongfully withheld from the treasurer the money with which to operate the school, the trustees were unable to pay Prof. Reihald his salary; and in order that this able educator might continue his work, President Easley persuaded his Board to advance his salary, taking his obligation to repay it out of the money coming from the State. But for this generous action by the Board, doubtless the deadly thrust aimed by the appellee at the existence of the school would have been fatal in its consequences.

In conclusion, perhaps no higher encomium could be paid the character of the school involved here than is contained in the opinion of the learned trial judge, whose judgment we are reviewing. After setting out the arrangement we have detailed above, he said:

"Under this arrangement, in connection with Professors Reihald, Faulkner and Jones, a most excellent school has been conducted for some seven months in the graded school building. It has given almost universal satisfaction in the town of Barbourville; in fact, I might say, that the school for this year, has been the best ever conducted in the city of Barbourville." The proof shows, I think, that every child within the school age of Barbourville graded school district, has had an opportunity to attend this school free. I regard it as the very greatest of misfortunes to the people and the children of Barbourville if they should lose this school; but it is a misfortune not of my making. I think that the defendant would much better have administered to the interests of the people of Barbourville if he had sought to have avoided this issue, rather than to raise it; but that is a matter for him—not for me—to decide."

We are of opinion that Professors Reihald, Faulkner and Jones had a valid contract with the trustees of graded school No. 1, of Barbourville, to teach them during the school session of 1906-1907; that they earned this money by honest and faithful work; that the evidence shows conclusively that all of it is due and will be paid to them, and none of it will ever go to Union College or any one connected with it, nor to either of the young ladies who lacked the required certificates to qualify them to teach in the public schools. These professors were in no wise to blame, even if we assume (which was not shown) that some of the acts of the trustees were irregular or improper. Having faithfully performed their contract, and the district having received the benefit of their services, they cannot be deprived, by any defense based on suspicion, of the reward justly due them.

For these reasons the judgment is reversed, with directions to the trial court to enter a judgment in conformity with the prayer of the petition.

Lost.

Between Joe Smith's and A. N. Herndon's store, a gold bracelet, engraved on one side with "Myrtle" on the inside. Finder will please return to First National Bank and receive reward.

J. R. TUGGLE WINS.

A telegram from Lexington states that J. R. Tuggle was seated as a delegate from Knox county to the State Convention to nominate delegates to the National Convention. All praise to G. W. Tye, Wm. Tye, Ed Dishman and others for the manner in which they stood by our friend, James Tuggle, to have given him a fair showing. He is one of the most honorable gentlemen of our county.

Democracy can now claim and hold its own in old Knox.

H. L. H.

Our office is a sort of free congress. People of all ages, of each sex, of all political beliefs and religious creeds, come in to discuss their issues, argue questions, ask for information and seek consolation in their troubles. We do our best for them and they generally go out into the cold world feeling much refreshed. Come and see us—the "latch-string" is always out, chairs furnished and spittoons improvised when absolutely necessary.

YOU MAY HEAR OR SEE STATEMENTS MADE BY MY Competitors that they are selling goods at low prices, but I say to the trade, that you have heard the wind blow lots of times. Now I want to say to you for all time to come, that you can always find goods at the Mammoth Store at as low prices as any of my competitors can afford to sell them, and if I sell them to you lower I hope you won't grumble at it. My motto is

Quick Sales and Short Profits.

I have been connected with the goods business for 38 years, and I have heard it thunder often during the time. Have just received a fresh car-load of flour, also a car-load of hay which I expect to offer to the trade at prices I am confident will meet all competition. I am not in the business to be side-tracked.

I am noted for being ready to talk and name low prices when they come to see me on all kinds of goods I handle.

LET THERE BE LIGHT!

If you want the light of day to shine in your home throughout the night, you must have an Electric Light installed, see M. P. MILLER, and have him make you a price on installing an electric light wire in your residence or business house.

The most satisfactory light ever used is electric light—no heat or odor usually experienced as by users of the lamp, always ready, no chimneys to clean, no danger of fire, cheaper than kerosene. Try it and be convinced.
